

The Reminder page

a little field guide · 日程 — things to do, dated or not 🌸

Everything here lives on cards: write a thought, it becomes a card — with a date, a time range, a link, a colour, or nothing at all. One loop, five minutes: add → date → edit → done → delete, in real pictures

1 Write it down

Click the dashed composer, type, and pick a colour — Personal, Work, Utility, Other, or a Custom one.

then it looks like this ↓ amber is the chosen one ♥

note to self — a card's colour follows it everywhere 🌸 the stripe on its left edge, the date & time badge, even the FILTER row on the last page — they all wear it. And Custom mixes a chip of my very own.

2 Give it a when (totally optional)

Press Add date — a little panel pops up. Pick a day (or type it), and if the hour matters choose a start time; the end fills itself in one hour later.

the panel, freshly opened psst — no date? no problem. A card can stay undated forever. Dated ones feed the due soon disc (next 7 days · 未来七天), and timed ones show up on the Today planner too.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
28	29	30	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	1

tap a day ♥

hour, all day 🎵

the end fills itself in ✨

dear diary — tonight I typed the date straight in, and the panel just took it. the end time? wrote itself, one hour later ✨

3 Press Add – it's a card now

5 Tick it off ✓

Click the round checkbox and the app double-checks. Confirm, and the card retires — it leaves the grid and completed counts one up.

why the question? a finished reminder leaves the list — the tally remembers it, the grid does not. So the app asks first.

one click, counted

6 See only what you need

The FILTER row narrows the grid to one colour. Click the same chip again (or All) to widen back out.

username/password accounts using CloudBase can mark a reminder shared so it appears on both linked accounts' Reminder pages in real time; once linked, a shared-only chip joins this row. Firebase / Google accounts do not support this feature. (Connect accounts on the Account page.)

7 Let one go

The little bin in a card's corner removes it — after one honest warning.

← it means it! no undo bin anywhere

...and that's the whole loop. Write, date, tick, repeat.

Happy remembering 📝
